Heidi has 15 years of experience as a Spiritual Director and for three decades has led workshops on contemplative and intercessory prayer. She is a member of the Middleway Urban Monastery Guiding Council and holds a PhD in Theology & Christian Ethics from the University of Edinburgh (Scotland). While her day job is as a university professor, teaching about contemporary media and religion, her heart is to help people cultivate their spiritual gifts and calling. Heidi specializes in guiding those entering seasons of change, vocational discernment, and seeking a deeper prayer life. She is experienced in helping pastors and ministry leaders in their personal spiritual journeys. She also has insights into how digital media can be used in one's religious practice and spiritual formation. Heidi has led seminars on centering prayer, holy listening, material prayer practices, Celtic spirituality, and spiritual entrepreneurship. She can also offer teachings on the impact of technology of spirituality, current trends in American Christianity, and the spirituality of Millennials, Gen Z & "Dones" (Christians who have left the church). She is available to meet with directees online and face-to-face after 4pm and on the weekends.
